

Call for Proposals

This Group invites and welcomes individual papers, panel proposals, and nontraditional ways of sharing scholarly work that address:

- Multiracial theologies

- The categories of “North” or “American” in Asian North American religion, culture, and society

- Intersections with Native American, indigenous religion, and religious communities

- Issues of religion and empire, including Asian settler colonialism

- The body and the disembodied

- Conservative Evangelicals

- Training, mentoring, and knowledge production for the next generation of Asian North American religion, culture, and society scholars

- Issues that address the concerns of Asian American religion and religious communities in Chicago

- Any other critical aspect of Asian North American religion/s, culture, and society

In addition to paper and panel submissions, we encourage the submission of nontraditional ways of sharing scholarly work and welcome a variety of formats to promote interactive sessions.

Mission

This Group (hereafter referred to as ANARCS) is one of the primary vehicles for the advancement of the study of the religions and practices of Asian-Americans and Pacific Islanders in the United States and Canada. As an integral player in the development of the emerging field of Asian-American religious studies, ANARCS has cultivated the work of junior and senior scholars from an impressive array of disciplines, including the history of religion, sociology, theology, philosophy, ethics, anthropology, psychology, education, and American and ethnic studies. ANARCS encourages new perspectives on Asian-North American religious practices and faith communities, as well as innovative theoretical work that extends the concepts of empires, diaspora, transnationalism, globalization, im/migration, orientalism, adaptation, acculturation, race, ethnicity, marginalization, oppression, and resistance. In addition to this list of concepts, ANARCS will explore theoretical, philosophical, and theological concepts, such as aesthetics, beauty, and love. ANARCS seeks to foster and mentor scholars (junior, senior, and nontraditional) through preconference sessions, gathering for meals, and maintaining a robust listserv.

Anonymity of Review Process

Proposals are anonymous to Chairs and steering committee members until after final acceptance/rejection.
